Chris Watson - Whispering in the Leaves

A major new sound installation at Sunderland Museum & Winter Gardens Presented as part of AV Festival 08 29 February – 9 March 08

Renowned BBC sound recordist and artist Chris Watson creates a major new sound installation that will transport audiences in Sunderland Winter & Gardens in North East England to the extraordinary surroundings of the earth's tropical rainforests. The project is presented as part of the AV Festival 08 which this year explores the theme of broadcast, and is produced by Newcastle based production agency Forma.

Chris Watson is a sound recordist specialising in natural history, with a particular and passionate interest in recording the wildlife sounds of animals, habitats and atmospheres from around the world. Renowned for his award-winning wildlife sound recording work with David Attenborough on productions such as The Life of Birds and The Life of Mammals, Watson was also a founding member of the electronic music pioneers Cabaret Voltaire (1971) and the Halfer Trio (1981), and has since released several solo and collaborative experimental music projects on Touch.

For AV Festival 08, Watson has created a powerful new sound work derived from his extensive archive of wildlife and on location recordings in Central and South America - habitats that host over half of the planet's wildlife. Diffused through the tropical foliage of the enclosed botanical environment of the Winter Gardens, which is home to over 2,000 flowers and plants, the surround soundtrack of wildlife dawn and dusk choruses will be transmitted at hourly intervals throughout the day for 15-20 minute durations – the approximate time taken in the rainforest for the transitions from darkness into light, and from daylight to dark. The sound pieces feature the calls and voices of thousands of species, including the howls and shrieks of black howler and spider monkeys, the musicality of diverse birdsong and the shimmering and hissing of tree frogs and cicadas.

A highly sensory and captivating experience, Whispering in the Leaves is a remarkable demonstration of the power of sound recordings and natural history broadcast to transport us to far flung, inaccessible and often extraordinary locations.

Live performance, Thursday 6 March, 8.30 – 9pm, Sunderland Museum & Winter Gardens

Chris Watson performs a live sound mix in which a three or four hour period across late afternoon, sunset and into the night will be compressed into around twenty minutes. Featuring recordings of a tropical thunderstorm and ending with the deep, lush sounds of the nocturnal insect chorus, the performance takes audiences on an intense auditory narrative into the unknown and foreboding territory of the rainforest at night.

Whispering in the Leaves is produced by Forma, and is commissioned by AV Festival and Forma.

AV Festival 08 is organised by Audio Visual Arts North East, an independent charitable company. AV Festival 08 forms part of NewcastleGateshead's world-class festivals and events programme managed by culture10, based at NewcastleGateshead Initiative.

NOTES TO EDITORS

Artist's biography

Chris Watson's work as a wildlife sound recordist includes both work for television documentaries and experimental musical collaborations. In 1971 he was a founding member of the influential Sheffield-based electronic music pioneers Cabaret Voltaire. Watson's sound recording career began in 1981 when he joined Tyne Tees Television. In this year he also became founder member of the experimental music group The Halfer Trio.

He has released three solo albums of field recordings: Outside the Circle of Fire, Stepping into the Dark (which won an Award of Distinction at the 2000 Prix ARS Electronica Festival in Linz, Austria), and Weather Report. He has also released several collaborative projects with other artists, including Star Switch On, a collaboration with Mika Vainio of Pan Sonic, Philip Jeck, Hazard, Fennesz, AER, and Biosphere. He has also released two CDs with Swedish sound artist BJNilsen. All of these recordings were released on Touch.

His work as sound recordist for the BBC includes The Life of Birds for BBC TV - BAFTA Award for Best Factual Sound 1998, The Life of Mammals for BBC TV 2001, and Big Cat Diary for BBC TV 1998-2002. Watson's recordings can be heard on numerous radio productions including A Swallow's Journey for BBC Radio 4 - Sony Radio Award Nominee 2002, The Oak Tree for BBC Radio 4 2006 - featured in BBC Radio's Pick of the Year, and Sounds of the Galapagos for BBC Radio 4 2006.
